Dear Class of 2011,

Congratulations on all your accomplishments. We are very proud of you. We will miss you. Please remember that for many of you, we watched you grow since before you were in Kindergarten. You have been a blessing to us as we hope that we have been a blessing to you. We all tried to be a good example realizing that we are not yet saints.

We remember your First Communion and the many times you inspired us as you gathered on the altar at the 9:30 Sunday Mass. Many were Altar Servers and a few were Lectors, some read the Prayers of the Faithful and some brought up the gifts. Some even inspired us with your songs from the choir.

We will miss you as some of you will travel and study far from here. We pray that you will find a parish where you will feel comfortable participating. Please know that you are always welcome home, here at St. Roberts.

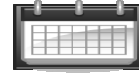

May God continue to send His blessings upon you. May He watch over and guide you with His tenderness and compassion. May you continue to feel His love every day of your life. Thank you for being part of our lives. God bless you.

The people of St. Robert's.

Email Warning!

I'm sorry to say that my email account here at St. Robert's was hacked into. Many of you may have received an email saying I was in London and needed your assistance. Because my entire Inbox and Contacts were erased, I was unable to send out a warning. Please know that I will never request anything other than your prayers. I realize I had an easy password to crack as it was only 6 digits. May I recommend that you update and change your passwords if you haven't recently. Learning from experience—Deacon Duffey

From the desk of the Pastor Parish Pastoral Council

For a pastoral council to perform its task successfully it needs a pastor, a chairperson and an agenda, all well-prepared.

The Pastor. The pastor is an ex officio member of the Council and presides over it. Certain attitudes of his are presumed once he has convened a council. He wishes, first of all, to listen to a source of wisdom larger than his own, saying by his presence on the council that he does not have all the answers, but that he believes in a collaborative process where the Spirit's gifts can be shared. He, secondly, implies his trust in the council members to work with him for the good of the parish and thereby empowers them to perform their ministry. He, thirdly, enters a covenant with them, agreeing to pursue an issue with them, to hear their recommendation, and to express his dissatisfaction with the recommendation should that be the case and all issues have not been resolved. He finally values and maintains the honesty of the exchange.

The Chairperson. The chairperson will be responsible to prepare and run an effective council meeting. In the area of the council's investigation, the chairperson makes certain the council understands the question or issue placed before it; encourages reactions from the members not unlike the process of brainstorming; recognizes proposals that require deeper investigation, research and consultation; senses the developing of a common opinion; invites volunteers to undertake responsibilities to deepen the input.

In the area of consideration, the chairperson invites the council to reflect on and ponder the results of its investigation. The chairperson makes certain that everyone understands the purpose of the investigation as an attempt to respond to the issue raised by the pastor or the council. He or she refers to previous minutes as an index of progress made and sees to it that each member has the opportunity to express an opinion. He or she distinguishes between questions that can be readily answered and those needing further research.

In the area of recommendation, the chairperson has a delicate and crucial task here: to enable the council to reach agreement about what course of action to recommend to the pastor and his staff. He or she must be able to articulate the truth they have discovered and embraced. We might add that only the important issues need be reached by consensus, decisions that must be widely supported in order to be effective.

Forming the Agenda. A well-planned agenda is essential to a successful pastoral council meeting and assures that council members will return for subsequent meetings, convinced they are not wasting their time. Pastor, chairperson, council leaders (vice-chairperson, council secretary) compose the agenda and have it distributed to the council members at least a week in advance so that they can prepare for the meeting.

Blessings,
Father Obet

The Memorial Acclamation

A 1972 document from the U.S. bishops once stated, "People in love make signs of love, not only to express their love but also to deepen it" (Music in Catholic Worship, n. 4). A similar thing could be said for people with faith — they act and speak (make signs) of faith. This is at the heart of the Eucharistic Prayer's memorial acclamation. At this point in the great prayer, the priest has spoken the institution narrative (This is my body ... / This is the cup of my blood ...) He then invites the assembly to join him in acclaiming the "mystery of faith."

Essentially, the mystery of faith expresses what is known as the paschal mystery. It is the mystery of Christ's "pasch" (Greek) or Passover — the mystery of his definitive passage to eternal life through his passion, death, resurrection, and ascension. When we acclaim, "Dying you destroyed our death, ..." or "When we eat this bread and drink this cup, ..." or "Lord, by your cross and resurrection, you have set us free. You are the Savior of the world", we make a sign of faith — a "Yes!" to the mystery at the center of our faith and a "Yes!" to the presence of the living Christ in the Eucharist. Christ's mystery is now ours. His dying, rising and return in glory are what redeem our lives.

REMEMBERING the WORD of GOD

"For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the death of the Lord until he comes.
