Dear Parishioners,

Our parish Social Concerns group has organized a summer food program – the Children’s Summer Lunch Bunch - to assist the hundreds of San Bruno children who usually receive free or subsidized lunches. The school district is offering a hot lunch for the first month of vacation at Belle Air School. For the other six weeks before school resumes, we want to give the children bags of child-friendly groceries to tide them over. Will you please help us with this effort?

Some items will be delivered from Second Harvest Food Bank and we have access to fresh fruits and vegetables through a member of our group, but we need you to bring the following items: cereal (cheerios, corn flakes, raisin bran), peanut butter, jelly, tuna, raisins, mac & cheese, graham crackers, canned corn or fruit. Generics are fine and our recommendation in terms of price is Target. There will be boxes in the vestibule to receive your donations. We’ll also gladly accept your monetary contribution and do the shopping for you!

We also need physical help bagging the items on those six Mondays from July 11 through August 15 at 1 pm in our hall and distributing the food on those six Tuesdays from 10 am til 12:30 pm at Belle Air School. Service hours gladly given! Please e-mail me at Sherman@aol.com if you can help or call the rectory for more information. “All the parts of the body, though many, are one body.” Thank you for helping us to serve these younger parts of the body who need our assistance!

From the desk of the Pastor
Parish Pastoral Council

First of all, I would like to congratulate the Class of 2011 for their accomplishment in establishing for themselves a solid foundation in elementary and middle school education, a Catholic education at that. I am certain that this will serve them well as they move on to an exciting phase of their life, high school life. Congratulations and thanks too to their parents and guardians for their untiring support for the education of their children. And last but not least, to the faculty and staff of St. Robert's School, kudos for a job well done in the formation of the 2011 graduates.

Again we continue our discussion on the nature, purpose and function of the Parish Pastoral Council. After seeing the roles of the pastor, council chairperson, and well prepared agenda, we now focus our attention on the members themselves. We will try to answer these questions: what makes a good pastoral council member? What are the criteria for selection of members? What is a helpful selection process? How do council committees function? What is the relationship of the pastoral council to other groups (parish staff, finance council, parish organizations)?

Membership. Let us begin by observing that the council should have a workable number of members. If it is too small, it may not represent various segments of the parish; if it is too large, it may be unwieldy and accomplish very little. Fifteen members or less seems sufficient.

Canon Law speaks in general terms about who should be selected for membership on the council. They are chosen, it says, to reflect the wisdom of the entire People of God.

To fulfill the tasks the council is to perform, members need specific gifts: the ability to study, investigate, and examine pastoral issues thoroughly. They need further the capacity to reflect widely and to ponder deeply, to listen to differing opinions, synthesize various points of view, and to discern what is best for the parish.

Members should be Catholics in good standing who celebrate liturgy with the parish and are committed to a life of prayer, the mission and ministries of the parish, and to the Church's understanding of consultation as reflected in these guidelines. They must be willing to participate in ongoing education and the council's group process. In a word, they must be genuine collaborators.

Finally the council members should be representative of the whole parish; they make the wisdom of the whole community present. Thus the membership reflects the various cultures, ages, and interests of the parish community.

Next week we will discuss the selection of members and the relationship of the council to the parish.

Blessings,
Father Obet

Living Liturgy

Happy Birthday! Today is the Feast of Pentecost, often referred to as the birthday of the Church. This is the day that so many centuries ago, the Spirit of God transformed the frightened disciples in the Upper Room into fearless witnesses to Jesus' life, death, resurrection and ascension. Many people spoke of Vatican II as a new Pentecost when John XXIII and the world's bishops opened the windows and doors to let in new and deeper understandings of Scripture and the early practices of the Church. Here are just some of the developments brought about by the action of the Holy Spirit over the four years of the bishops' sessions: A new emphasis on the dignity and vocation of all the baptized; liturgy as a communal event in the language of the people; the restoration of the catechumenate (RCIA) process for adults wanting to become Catholic; the works of justice as an essential aspect of our faith.

The changes of Vatican II called us all to a sense of responsibility for our Church. As the second reading proclaims, "To each individual, the manifestation of the Spirit is given for some benefit." We each have something to give for the enrichment of our parish and we each have much to gain from the wisdom and gifts of the staff and other members of the parish. How has your life been blessed through being involved at St. Robert's? What blessing have you brought to those you laugh with and pray with in this parish? May the Spirit continue to enliven us all!
